

Peer Editing Worksheet -Scholarly Article Analysis (use back if needed)

Name of Reviewer: Rewon, Munpreet

Name Reviewed: Maya

1. Is the title specific to the analysis/topic?

yes, title is specific to analysis i topic

Yes.

2. Does the first paragraph sufficiently introduce the article (for example, author's name, journal and article titles, date)?.

yes, author's name is induced however, the name of the journal, is not included

True it Just says (The study) and not where it's from, ex. NyTimes.

3. Is the thesis (last sentence of introduction) the main points of the analysis? How can it be improved?

Yes, the thesis is the last sentence. Maybe include the sections in the article

4. Does the analysis of the article include the following format of article, voice (active/passive), tenses, word choice, content of each section? Does the analysis need to be developed or edited for clarification? Is every section of the article analyzed?

the format of the article was included, word choice and the tenses were included in the analysis, analysis overall all was clear, try expanding it a little more.

No conclusion?

5. Are there many grammar, spelling, or punctuation mistakes? Are "You" and "I" pronouns avoided? Circle problems on the draft.

Grammar and spelling looks good

No, there were no mistakes

6. Overall, state one thing the analysis does well and one thing that needs to be improved.

The analysis was very straight forward and For It can be expanded a little more to show more detail.